Recycle with TerraCycle

Empty medicine blister packs

Recycle from Anywhere

How it works

Aldi has partnered with TerraCycle so households and individuals can recycle all brands of empty medicine blister packs for free. Simply follow the steps below to send in your empty blister packs in an envelope, and we'll recycle them!

1. Create a TerraCycle account - if you don't already have one - and select from the drop-down list either the household or individual option depending on which one you are.
2. Join the Aldi Blister Pack Envelope Recycling Programme.
3. Download your prepaid shipping label (2 labels per TerraCycle account per month maximum ... one label downloaded at a time is valid for 14 days).
4. Once you have downloaded and printed your shipping label, stick it on an envelope you have at home (maximum size of envelopes: C4 = 324mm x 229mm).
5. Fill your envelope with a maximum of 30 medicine blister packs.
6. Place your full envelope in a Royal Mail postbox to send it to TerraCycle for recycling.

That means you can send us up to 60 empty medicine blister packs every month!

Please note this programme is subject to availability.

TerraCycle reserves the right to remove from the programme any collector who fails to comply with the rules indicated on this programme page.
